

John W. Flora has been elected to the board of directors of Shenandoah Telecommunications Co.

Flora is a senior partner with Lenhart Obenshain PC, a Harrisonburg-based law firm.

He earned his law degree at the College of William & Mary and focuses his practice on business and tax law.

Flora will serve a three-year term on the Shentel board, filling the vacancy created when Winchester lawyer William A. Truban Jr. declined renomination.

Based in Edinburg, Shentel is a holding company that provides telecommunications services through a dozen operating subsidiaries. The company is an affiliate of Sprint Nextel.

Shentel reported net income for 2007 of $18.8 million.
